

Machine Tools

Modern manufacturing tools have to work at both speed and with accuracy. Machine tool castings supplied by Batley Foundry reflect this requirement in both the quality of material and dimensional repeatability of the castings.

Whether the requirement is for a machine base, a wheel head, a turntable, a slide way, a pallet system or other component part, our castings provide the building blocks for our customers machines. Our castings are used to perform manufacturing tasks in the aerospace, high volume automotive, hydraulic drive and general engineering sectors. Parts can be supplied in rough or finished machined condition to suit your requirements.

We can even supply castings with inserts cast in, powder coated, assembled and packaged to suit our customer's machines.
